Distribution of 4Ps by Income Decile

Logit Model: likelihood of being poor in 2018

Odds of being poor is modeled as:

$$\text{Logit [Poor}_i = 1] = h [ \text{Fchar}_i, \text{S}_i, \text{VS}_i, \text{Loc}_i ]$$

Where:

Fchar = age of hh head, educ of hh head, hh support ratio

S = sector of employment

Loc = location characteristics

VS = vulnerability of municipality to shocks

Logit Model: The odds of being poor in 2018

Where:

fchar = age of hh head, educ of hh head, hh support ratio (number of employed members/family size)

S = sector of employment

Loc = location characteristics (East vs West; mountainous, coastal)

VS = vulnerability of municipality to shocks (flooding, landslide)

Experiences and lessons learned from previous PDPs, especially PDP 2017-2022 implementation

Sustained rapid economic growth is a necessary condition for a significant poverty reduction.

Reforms must be complemented by safety nets.

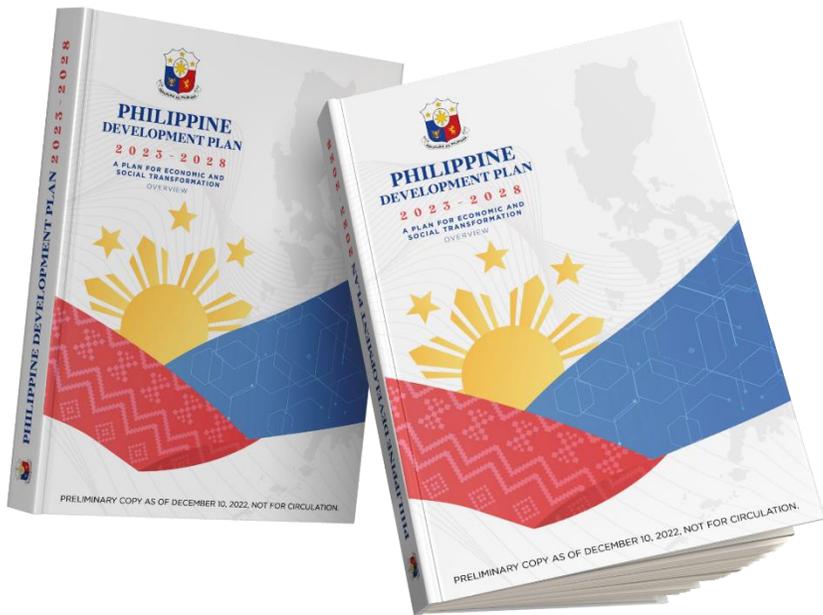

Reform initiatives must be preceded by a communication and advocacy campaign to build broad-based support for the reform

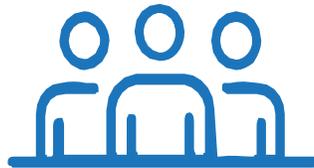

Governance is more important than government.

PDP 2023-2028: A Plan for Economic and Social Transformation

Poverty reduction efforts need to be nuances and should evolve with the times....

A significant number of the poor in 2015 have become nonpoor

A number of innovations have been developed in the economic, social, institutional and environmental domains

But they remain vulnerable; they have not built up sufficient human, physical and financial capital

It remains a VUCA world, made worse by the economic and social scarring due to COVID19

Poverty reduction efforts need to be nuances and should evolve with the times....

They should be empowered with the knowledge, skills and competencies to participate in economic processes and to continuously build up capital

Social protection, DRR, and CCA will be critical components of poverty reduction efforts.

A significant number of the poor in 2015 have become nonpoor

But they remain vulnerable; they have not built up sufficient human, physical and financial capital

A number of innovations have been developed in the economic, social, institutional and environmental domains

It remains a VUCA world, made worse by the economic and social scarring due to COVID19

Government needs to be more efficient in delivering services and introducing reforms

All of society needs to adopt a culture of innovation

Government needs to be more adept at futures and foresight thinking
